

California State University Northridge
Sponsored by Gender and Women's Studies & Middle Eastern and Islamic Studies

Development, Health and Reproductive Rights:
A Case Study in Afghanistan
By: Taraneh Salke

Date: October 30th, 2014

Time: 4:30 PM

Location: Room 321 Sierra Hall

Taraneh Salke is the founder and executive director of Family Health Alliance (FHA), a nonprofit organization focused on advancement of women's reproductive health and rights in resource poor environments (www.familyhealthalliance.org). An advocate of global women's health and rights, she speaks extensively nationally and internationally (www.taranehsalke.com), about the importance of cultural sensitivity and relevance in implementing global development programs. Her award-winning documentary "Where Are The Men?" depicts women's health and status in Afghanistan and opportunities missed by the international community to advance women's development in this male dominated society (www.wheretheformenmovie.com). In 2013, Taraneh was honored at the Women of The World Awards, sponsored by 50/50 Leadership and the United Nations Association. The award recognizes "women who are impacting lives throughout the world."

Contact:

Department of Gender and Women's Studies, Jerome Richfield 340, 18111 Nordhoff St, Northridge, CA 91330

(818) 677-3110, www.csun.edu/gws

Middle Eastern and Islamic Studies, Jerome Richfield 346D, Phone: (818) 677-7218, www.csun.edu/meis/