DIRECTOR'S NOTE

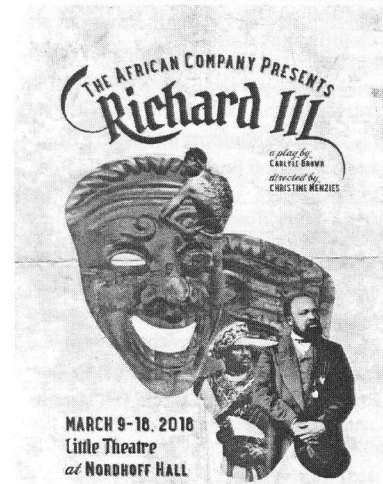

As a director who frequently helms productions of serious plays, I am excited to be crafting a children's show this season, and one that my own young children can see. I relish giving them the opportunity to experience the magic of live performance, and the transformative power of theatre. In the theatre, we tell stories both to entertain and to allow audiences to reflect on their own humanity. I believe theatre should be accessible and welcoming to all, especially children! By no coincidence, this particular show takes the same attitude towards storytelling. If there is one message in The Stinky Cheese Man that rises above the rest, it's that every one of us can feel empowered to own and embrace the power of storytelling and take it in whatever noble or silly direction we wish.
